Sole Source Provider

Coherent Inc. or Coherent certified service providers are the only businesses approved to perform field service, depot repairs, advance replacements, and return replacement events on Coherent manufactured equipment. Independent Service Providers (ISOs) are not recognized by Coherent and the following policy applies for Coherent products serviced by an ISO:

- Coherent recognizes the right of customers to utilize an ISO and does not intend to preclude ISOs from operating.
- Due to various safety, health, regulatory and other business considerations, Coherent will only distribute parts and components to customers or representatives that own Coherent equipment.
- Customers have the option to install or have Coherent service install Coherent replacement parts with the understanding that some parts require Coherent-certified technical personnel to install them.
- Coherent disclaims any responsibility for maintenance or repair service performed by an ISO.
- Under standard terms and conditions of sale, customers should be advised that use of an ISO will void Coherent's warranty with respect to the operation of the customer's system or any component part thereof.
- No field service work will be performed by Coherent personnel on any Coherent laser system that has been serviced or intervened by an ISO until the scope of previous repairs or modifications has been understood by Coherent. This requires a written statement from the owner/end customer specifying the work previously completed. In addition, Coherent may request that the system be returned to its original condition and performance specifications via a depot repair strategy.
- Product support via telephone, email, and remote diagnostics if offered only to qualified Coherent customers.
